Strong families make children’s lives better, so Saint Francis helps families heal.

Seeking Safety is treatment designed for families dealing with substance use disorder and who are at risk of having their children removed from the home.

Our program offers evidence-based, in-home or in-office services designed to help parents, pregnant women, and new parents with infants heal from substance abuse and trauma so they can strengthen their families and reorient their lives.

The road to recovery is unique for each family. That’s why Saint Francis doesn’t use a “one size fits all” approach to treatment. Rather, we help you take ownership of your recovery by providing flexible, individualized treatment practices.

Key principles:
- Safety – helps families find safety in their relationships, behaviors, and emotions
- Integration – combines substance use and trauma treatment
- Content – examines cognitive, behavioral, and interpersonal concerns
- Processes – provides structured treatment that addresses countertransference, self-care, and other areas of need related to substance use and trauma
- Flexibility – designed to treat women, men, and mixed groups – in a variety of settings

Process:
- The Kansas Department for Children and Families refers clients.
- Counselor offers the program to a family.
- In-home family with additional option of in-office sessions for group or individual. Sessions include:
  1. Check-in
  2. Quotation
  3. Discussion topic presented for group/family activity
  4. Check-out
  5. Set commitments for next session
  6. Sessions for individuals with substance use disorder
